

Bangalore

Bangalore is the capital city of the south Indian state of Karnataka, and is nicknamed as the "silicon valley" and "Garden City" of India. Bangalore is very pleasant during March with a bit of chill in the air. This city is home to many internationally reputed scientific institutions and industries. It has famous parks, temples and other attractions. Bangalore is close to other famous tourist attractions like Mysore, Belur, Halebid etc. It is a highly cosmopolitan city where communities from various parts of the country live.

IISc

The Indian Institute of Science (IISc) was started in 1909 through the pioneering vision of J.N.Tata. Since then, it has grown into a premier institution of research and advanced instruction, with more than 4,000 active researchers working in almost all frontier areas of science and technology. IISc is an institute of higher learning and is constantly in pursuit of excellence. It is one of the oldest and finest centers of its kind in India, and has a very high international standing in the academic world as well.

JNCASR

The Jawaharlal Nehru Centre for Advanced Scientific Research (JNCASR) is a multidisciplinary research institute and a deemed university, situated in Jakkur, a locality north of Bangalore. It pursues and promotes world-class research and training at the frontiers of science and engineering, covering broad areas ranging from materials to genetics. It provides a vibrant academic ambience hosting more than 300 researchers.

CHG

The Centre for Human Genetics (CHG) is engaged in advanced research, teaching and training in areas which lie at the interface of modern genetics and medicine. It also provides comprehensive clinical services, including genetic counseling for a range of genetic disorders and inborn errors of metabolism. It conducts a two-year Master's degree program in Human Disease Genetics under the aegis of Mysore University. It offers a post-doctoral fellowship programme in pediatric genetics in collaboration with the Indira Gandhi Institute of Child Health, Bangalore. With support from the Government of Karnataka, the Centre provides diagnostic and genetic counseling services free of cost to BPL families. The Centre is located in Electronic City, south Bangalore.

Dear Colleagues,
 It gives us great pleasure to inform you that the 42nd Annual Meeting of the Indian Society of Human Genetics (ISHG2017) will be organized at the Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore, India, from March 2-4, 2017. Human genetic research has entered a critical phase in the global scenario in post genomic era. We have now a better understanding of the basic mechanism of several genetic disorders, with the identification of many causative genes in recent years. The major task now in front of the scientists is to translate these bench side findings to the bedside for the benefit of patients. The challenges in front of us are in the area of diagnosis, carrier detection, gene therapy, reducing the morbidity and last but not the least, prevention of birth of children affected with genetic disorders. In view of this, we are making every effort to see this meeting serves as a forum for scientific exchange in frontier areas of human genetics. We have planned an exciting program with key note lectures on each day by leaders in human genetics and scientific sessions in all the modern areas of human genetic research with speakers from within the country and abroad. In addition, we invite all the young students and scientists to display their work by way of posters. Few selected abstracts will be given an opportunity for short presentations. Besides, there are several awards instituted by the ISHG. I hope you will be able to find time to attend this meeting and contribute towards the scientific deliberations. March is an ideal time in Bangalore when the weather is pleasant. IISc has an excellent ambience coupled with academic excellence. It is our earnest hope that the meeting will immensely benefit the human genetics community.

Yours sincerely,
